Four hundred miles off the coast of north Africa, Madeira, a Portuguese island, produces one of the world's most exquisite and distinctive wines. Broadbent Madeiras have been blended to the specifications of Michael Broadbent, Master of Wine, known for his love of Madeira, and Bartholomew Broadbent, known for reintroducing Americans to Madeira in 1987, long forgotten since Prohibition in 1920. The Broadbent Madeiras embody the beauty, tradition and elegance of this unique wine.

Broadbent 10-Year Malmsey Madeira is full-bodied, wonderfully rich, with a lovely honeyed flavor and powerful bouquet. Best enjoyed with desserts or on its own after a meal. It can be enjoyed for months after opening.
